TOWN AND COUNTRY BOARD OF ALDERMEN MEETING Mon 04/08/24

ALDERPERSONS PASS FIRST REAL ESTATE PROPERTY TAX IN 27 YEARS. Prior to the vote Finance Director Joan Jadali gave her third presentation in the last three meetings. She was followed by City Administrator Bob Shelton.

The following points were raised supporting the increasing the tax from Zero to 23-cents per $100 assessed valuation.

There is no more commercial retail property in city to generate sales tax. Of course there was until Board of Aldermen rezoned retail property to residential and allowed housing that did not meet the city's 1-acre lot and rear facing garages zoning requirements.

When Town and Country Crossing was first built the 2008 recession hit. The developer only had a 40% occupancy rate and was headed to default.

When first approved, a large area to the west was vacant, but zoned retail for future Businesses that would generate sales tax. Mayor Jon Dalton and Ald. Fred Meyland-Smith pushed a bill to rezone the property. However, subdivision developer Pulte Homes needed small lots for lots of homes, which violated T&C Zoning. The Aldermanic Board passed that too. So goodbye to future retail stores and sales tax.

Next there was the issue of rehabbing the City Hall and Police Station, that the finance Director and city administrator put at $10,000,000. However Ald. Joe Kinsella's questions caused them to admit there had been no official cost estimate or bids.

Then there was the fire station. 12-years ago the City replaced the bay doors with windows to solid doors to reduce air conditioning cost and made other improvements. Now citing a leaky roof parking lot repaving and the need for more rehabbing the City Administrator stated the city hall and firehouse projects would cost $14,000,000. Again there were no professional cost estimates.

Joan Jadali stated that the required 50% reserve of the annual budget would fall below 50% by 2017 or 2018 without the property tax. She added that the tax could be rescinded in the event of a strong budget in future years.

Here are the building rehab costs from Joan Jadali presentation:

Ald. Kinsella stated that he had not been shown the numbers to back up the need for the tax.

Ald. Kinsella

Ward 4 Ald. David Murphy seemed to be questioning the need for the tax, until the vote.

“I was hoping to have hard numbers on the improvements. Do we need to raise it to 23-cents or is there another number?”

Ald. Sue Allen, who is residing in an assisted facility spoke up. "When we don't have the money for a project, I don't think a lot of people in Town and Country want to hear there is no money."

The April 2 city election with two new alderpersons elected won't be certified by the Board of Elections for another week. Holly Even, who resigned due to a scandal, had an empty chair and defeated Alderwoman Michelle Francisco was missing for her last meeting as she was out of town with her kids to watch the Total Eclipse.

It seemed to make good sense to continue this issue until the two new aldermen are present for their first meeting later in April. However there did not appear to be too much good sense as not one person moved to continue the meeting.

The vote was 5-1 for the 23-cent tax with only Joe Kinsella voting "NO."

While no one has a lot of sympathy for property taxes on recently built multi-million dollar Mcmasions, there still are a number of retirees on fixed incomes living in ranch houses built in the 1960s, that an additional tax could burden.

UNAPPROVED CHESTERFIELD NEWSLETTER

There are some readers upset with the police news and police blotter being the first item in the Chesterfield portion of the newsletters. Frankly there has not been a lot of political news since the votes to redevelop the Chesterfield Mall site. We normally lead off with the Police Blotter because we receive that info on a daily basis and insert it accordingly. Some readers want to know where the burglaries, car thefts and robberies are happening. We also realize that some readers enjoy the Drunks and Thieves newsletters, acknowledging the work the police do. However, others hate it. When it is first posted the readership numbers are high, but they quickly drop off.

This is why we have reduced the times it appears and we have shortened the length.

LAND LINE PHONE USERS, A WAY TO REDUCE UNWANTED CALLS.

You pick up the line, there is a pause and then someone asks if I'm Mr. Hoffmann or if Mr. Hoffmann is there. I now reply that Mr. Hoffmann died two weeks ago and I'm the widow's brother helping out my sister. The caller then hangs up. I still get some scam calls but very few since my death.
