Chesterfield and Town and Country Election Newsletter

November 1, 2012

Most reasonable people know when Todd Akin spoke the memorable words “legitimate rape” on the August 18 Saturday afternoon Jaco Report interview show on KTVI, he really meant to say “forcible rape.” Too many people latched on to the “legitimate rape” aspect of his statement and ignored what followed...how a woman’s body shuts down making conception difficult to occur.

To me it is what he said after “legitimate rape” that makes many people mutter, “This guy is in congress?”

A few weeks ago I crunched the campaign contribution numbers supplied by the Federal Election Commission. I looked at what money was rolling into the Claire McCaskill and Akin campaigns before Akin became a national figure in late night TV monologues and in editorial cartoons.

I get curious. I was wondering what the effect national publicity over Akin’s comments had on fund raising. It took a week to go through about 45,000 contributions. My eyes were getting blurry after 40-hours of staring at numbers on my computer screen as I again decided to look at the big money and keep track of any contribution at a $1,000 or more to either campaign.

This from the Huffington Post is typical of the national lambasting Akin has taken.

In the first seven months of the year Akin had gotten a noticeable number of contributions from doctors, as he was clearly against Obamacare. He was also getting a lot of money from the coal mining industry. Our research showed the money from both the docs and the companies in the coal regions dried up after the Jaco Report.

However with the national publicity he had tapped into a new conservative source of people who have not been familiar with him. In the first seven months of the year he got $192,400 of big donations of $1,000 or more from out of state source. That is a period of about 32 weeks. After the Jaco Report interview he collected $189,000 from out of state contributions of $1,000 or more in just six weeks.

McCaskill had been getting money from typical Democratic areas such as show biz, labor groups and east coast blue bloods. That continued in spades.

After the controversy Akin asked for any contributions including some as small as $5. It was interesting to note that while Akin was successful in getting the small donations, McCaskill was more successful. But what was astounding was all the large contributions that McCaskill started getting.

Two factors were also in play. The Democrats wanting to hang onto to the majority in the Senate were steering some contributions her way. Secondly after the interview there was a reversal in the polls. Suddenly she went from trailing to leading. Sportswriters may root for the underdog for the sake of their story, but people throwing money at politicians prefer to invest in likely winners.

NEW YORK, NEW YORK IT'S A WONDERFUL TOWN! McCaskill collected more large donations from just New York City six weeks after Akin's Jaco interview ($221,950) than Todd collected in the State of Missouri ($216,859). He had no large contributions from New York City and only three $1,000 donations from the State of New York.

HOORAY FOR HOLLYWOOD AND THE SILICON VALLEY: Claire collected more money in the six weeks after Jaco than Akin did in Missouri or nationally, when she got $1,000 or more from 130 Californians totaling $217,933. Movie people from Disney animators to major studio directors and producers were sending money to Claire in fly over territory known as Missouri. Women geeks working at Google on the West Coast and Facebook on the East Coast sent big money.

A third thing was hard to ignore. There are a number of women pissed at Akin and his remarks. Suddenly the doctors who were not giving money to McCaskill in the first seven months were now. Plus lots of women! Women from out west who were listing their occupations as "rancher" or "farmer"

One group that stuck with McCaskill was lawyers. 25-percent of big dollar contributors from Missouri over the first seven months were lawyers. That did not change. It was again 25-percent of large Missouri contributions that were coming from attorneys in the six weeks after the Jaco Report aired. One change was a noticeable increase in out of state large donations that came from women law professors.

WEST COUNTY STILL FOR AKIN...BUT THAT WAS IT:

Chesterfield had 30 people hand over big checks to Akin from January to July ($59,200) compared to just 15 for McCaskill ($17,750). After Jaco nine people making large contributions with Chesterfield addresses gave Todd $13,750. Claire narrowed the difference getting $1,000 or more checks from seven Chesterfield people for $9,750.

LADUE: The first seven months of the year saw 14 people from Ladue give big checks to Todd totaling $44,500. McCaskill had more large contributors from Ladue but less money, taking in $31,400 from 18 people. After Jaco, Akin got $31,999 from 12 large amount contributors. Claire only managed $22,500 from 11 people living in the 63124 zip code.

TOWN AND COUNTRY: In the first seven months of the year Akin got $27,100 from 14 people writing four figure checks. McCaskill beat him with $28,300 from 12 contributors of big bucks. After Jaco Akin got $12,500 from seven people writing the word “thousand” on their checks. McCaskill only got $8,150 from four generous contributors over the six week period

THE REST OF ST. LOUIS : But Claire’s money pumps in the City of St. Louis and Clayton were still working. From January to July she took in $125,351 from 57 large money contributions in the City of St. Louis. Akin had four people with city address cough up $5,000. The six weeks after Jaco Claire got $38,178 in big checks from St. Louis. Todd gathered only two checks over $1000 for $5,000.

It was worse in U. City. $38,150 of large checks came McCaskill’s way from University City from January to July. Akin got one for $1,500. In the six weeks after legitimate rape hit the airwaves Claire $19,000 in large donations from 12 people in U. City. Todd got one for $1,000.

CLAYTON wasn’t any better for Akin. McCaskill grabbed 65 big checks for $116,950 through July. Todd got three for $4,700. From the Jaco Report to the end of September Claire got another $67,300 in large checks out of Clayton. Todd didn’t get any.

FRONTENAC went with McCaskill in our January through July survey $14,825 to $3,400 for Todd, showing not all rich people are ultra conservative. After Jaco Akin didn’t fare any better. He got one $1,000 check and McCaskill got five big checks for $10,500.

TINY Village of Country Life Acres with just a few dozen houses and surrounded by Town and Country on Clayton Road had two contributors after the Jaco report, one for each candidate. Akin got $1,000 from a man and McCaskill got $3,000 from a woman.

KC If U. City went for Claire in a big way in the contribution race, in Kansas City it was as if Akin did not exist. Lawyers led the way with $246,813 for the former Jackson County prosecutor over the first seven months. They followed that up with $75,000 in large donations from August 19 to September 30. Akin had $12,750 from 12 big KC spenders for the first seven months of 2012 and five $1,000 donations after Jaco.

A FEW CATCHES Spending a week of eyeballing campaign finance records for eight days a few things did catch my eye.

For instance Mr. Charles Drury, the president of Drury Inns, gave large contributions to Akin. Joseph Pereles, a vice-president of Drury Inns gave a hefty check to McCaskill.

A. Alfred Taubman founder of Taubman properties, a company building a Chesterfield Outlet Mall gave $2,000 to the McCaskill campaign on September 4.

Ward Lein, the CEO of Town and Country's Energizer gave $2,500 to Claire.

Kevin O'Keefe one of the top dogs at the law firm that does Town and Country's legal work gave McCaskill $500 after the Jaco interview.

Chesterfield's city attorney Bob Heggie gave McCaskill a $1,000 in 2011. He followed that up with another $1,000 for Claire on August 1, 2012.

Kansas City area Republican Teresa Loar, a former KCMO city councilwoman gave McCaskill $900 in 2011 and another $50 after the Jaco Report.

August Busch III made a large contribution to Akin, while other members of the family sent money to Claire.

We found one person who gave Akin $1,000 in 2011 and McCaskill $2,500 after the Jaco Report.

We could not included fashion designer Donna Karan's $1,000 contribution to Claire, because it came after the July finance report was closed and before the Jaco interview. You would think that maybe Donna could send Claire some hipper threads if she wins. Of course McCaskill wants to keep it a Midwest "conservative look" up to Election Day.

I have to admit that some of the people giving large checks to Claire had a slightly more interesting sense of humor than those of Akin supporters. The FEC requires donors to list employers and occupations. Here are a few examples.

Elizabeth Theiss of Ballwin gave a $1,000 and listed her occupation as "domestic engineer."

Kim Marie Graham of Liberty, Missouri sent McCaskill $1,000 and listed her occupation as “domestic Goddess and attorney.”

Ellen Steis of Sterling Virginia wrote her occupation down with her $1,000 donation as simply “woman.”

Farmer Barry Aylock of Parma, Missouri gave McCaskill $2,400 and listed his line of work as an “agri-business entrepreneur.”

My favorite was the occupation given by Walter Wilke of Austin, Texas who gave Claire $5,000. He listed his occupation as “self- employed leisurist.” I might have to steal that one. Wilke later asked for half of his contribution back. Apparently he needed more funding for his occupation.

Here are a few occupations that you saw on McCaskill contributions that you didn't see on ones for Akin: Actor, Artist, Musician, Director, Animation Director, Producer, Opera Singer, manager of Ballet Company, New York City Theater Manager, Writer, Editor, Literary Agent, Publisher, Actor Agent, employee of actor's labor organization, Film Curator, Horse Breeder, Architect, Law Professor, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney and Songwriter.

In our last newsletter about this Senate race, I wrote how it was interesting to see that Tom Lehr, the Harvard Math professor, who had several hit musical satire albums in the 1960's and appear on David Frost's parody TV Show, “That Was The Week That Was” was alive and gave big money to the McCaskill campaign.

Going through these new campaign records, I found a $500 donation from a familiar name from 1960's music and television, Nancy Sinatra.

Another person who we all of likely heard sing, but might be unfamiliar with his name was also on the McCaskill donor list. James Ottaway gave money to the Missouri senator. He has performed as a vocalist on Fresh Air and Manheim Steamroller Christmas albums.

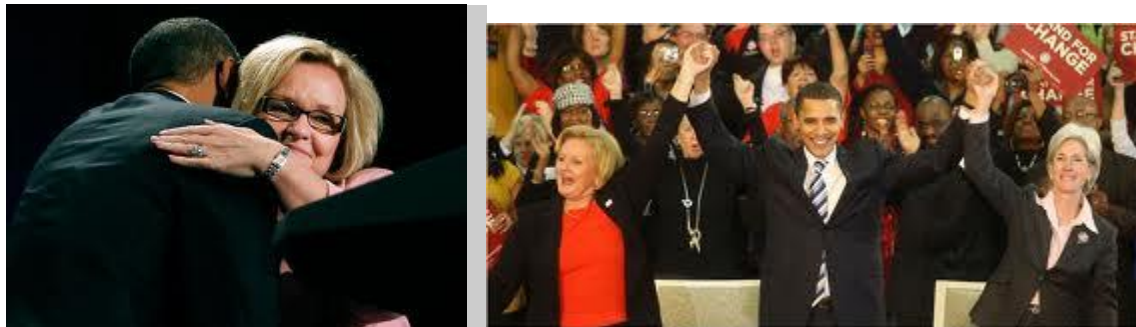

The October Quarterly Reports from Akin and McCaskill that included the “After Jaco” period up to September 30 showed that McCaskill collected $5,344,764 to Akin's $1,600,728.

For the 2011-2012 election cycle up to September 30 McCaskill had collected $15,008,018 to Akin's $3,825,304.

AMAZING! If you look at the campaign contributions you'd swear McCaskill would win in a landslide. She had more money coming in from more people, from more towns and cities in Missouri and more States than Akin. While Todd would get a $1,000 from a PAC, Claire would get $150,000.

However the latest polls taken well after the Jaco Interview showed McCaskill's lead on Akin had dropped from 10 points to 2 points.

You have to wonder if too many Missourians who now favor Romney by eight points are remembering photos like these connecting Senator McCaskill and President Obama.

The latest lists of big money contributors to both campaigns are listed at the end of this newsletter. The Jan. 2012 to July 2012 list of big buck donors is on the website <http://johnhoffmann.net>

LET'S MAKE A DIEHL. JOHN DIEHL CONTINUES HIS ELECTION CAMPAGIN FIGHT AGAINST NO CANDIDATE...HE COLLECTS ANOTHER $200,050 in October and spends most of it. Can State Rep. John Diehl ever get enough money?

State Representative John Diehl, who now serves parts of Frontenac, Town and Country and Chesterfield has never had any opposition in a primary or general election. That certainly hasn't stopped him in raising money. It is apparently very expensive to run unopposed.

We have reported for over a year now how Diehl is collecting money from sources outside of his district and in fact outside of Missouri, with large contributions coming in from special interest groups from the East Coast to the West Coast. It appears as if Diehl is most interest in John Diehl and not the residents of his district.

Three weeks in October up to eight-days before the general election Diehl has collected another $200,000 in three weeks and dispersed most of it.

His biggest contributor in the three week period was Rex Sinuefield of Westphalia, Missouri who donated $75,000. Westphalia is just under a 2-hour drive on twisting and winding roads from the edge of Diehl's district.

SAY IT WITH A CARD We mentioned in a recent newsletter how at the same time Hallmark Cards was shutting down a production facility and laying off workers, they gave Diehl a $1,000.

The Hallmark money continued to flow this month. On October 3rd Hallmark of Kansas City gave Diehl a $1,000. That was followed on October 4 by a $1,000 campaign contribution from Donald Hall of Hallmark Cards and a $1,000 from Donald Hall, Jr. of Hallmark Cards then came another $1,000 from Donald Hall, Jr. on October 5. The sincerest way to say it may be with a Hallmark Card but for Diehl it is with cash from Hallmark Cards.

Here are a few out of state contributions received by Diehl in October:

$1000	Pinnacle Entertainment	Las Vegas, Nevada
$500	Swedish Match (Tobacco)	Richmond, Virginia
$1000	BNSF Railway Co	Ft. Worth, Texas
$1000	Union Pacific Railroad	Omaha, Nebraska

$200	Edison Learning Inc	Knoxville, Tennessee
$250	K12 Management	Herndon, Virginia
$1000	NRA Political Vic Fund	Fairfax, Virginia
$250	Southern Wine & Spirits	Miramar, Florida
$500	Waste Management	Houston, Texas
$1000	Advance America	Spartanburg, South Carolina
$2500	Forrest Lucas (Lucas Oil)	Corona, California
$2500	United Healthcare	Minneapolis, Minnesota
$500	Tenet	Dallas, Texas
$1000	Check into Cash	Cleveland, Tennessee
$2000	QC Holdings	Overland Park, Kansas
$4,000	Advantage Capital	New Orleans, Louisiana
$2,000	National Processing	Overland Park, Kansas
$1200	Astra Zeneca	Wilmington, Delaware
$500	ARDA ROC PAC	Washington, DC
$750	Aetna	Hartford, Connecticut

SPECIAL ORDERS DON'T UPSET BURGER KING AND SPECIAL INTRESTS DON'T UPSET DIEHL...Diehl continues to get money from the pork industry after selling Missourians down the road by voting for special legislations that limits how Missourians can sue large hog operations run by Smithfield Farms of Virginia for polluting neighboring property in west central Missouri. Diehl has accepted thousands in contributions from Smithfield and the Missouri Pork PAC, including from both in the last quarter. The money and Christmas Hams started rolling Diehl's way just before the vote taking away landowner rights adjacent to huge hog farms. It continues as the Pork PAC tossed in another $500 in October. Beside Railroads Diehl is also accepting large donations from any and all Missouri utilities.

THE DEBT: Diehl normally makes a $25,000 payment to Chase Credit Cards each quarter. Now in October he upped that. Perhaps he is trying to get out of debt...by making a $30,000 payment on October 1 and a $30,000 payment on October 25. How can you be hundreds of thousands of dollars in debt to a credit card company when you never have an opponent?

Diehl paid campaign worker Charles Hinderliter of Maplewood $2,500 on October 22. What does Hinderliter do? Is he going door-to-door in T&C and Chesterfield getting out that Diehl vote? These were also $1,500 to campaign consultants. I guess that is a bargain, after all he doesn't have to worry about going negative.

As in other quarters Diehl has travel costs and all are outside of his district in West County. He spent $285 at the 54th Street Grill in Independence, Missouri. He dropped another $126 at J. Bucks downtown. There was also the airfare. Who knew his district in West County was so big he needed to buy commercial airline tickets to cover it. Then there were also the Kansas City and Springfield hotel rooms.

GENEROUS TO A FAULT: John also handed out over $100,000 to other candidates, mostly in $500 payments with notable exceptions of $10,000 to Cole McNary, running an uphill battle for treasurer, $3,000 for Kirkwood state rep, Rick Stream and $2,500 for severely ethically challenged Ed Martin running for Attorney General.

THE EXPENSIVE BUT QUIET RACE: It is amazing that Diehl has collected close to a $1,000,000 and always seems to have over $250,000 in the bank for this expensive race against no one, but hasn't even put a yard sign out at his house located on Clayton Road.
